Subjective Survey Data in Labour Market Research

Workshop

Institute for Labour Law and Industrial Relations in the European Union (IAAEU)
Trier, Germany

October 7-8, 2016

We are pleased to announce a two-day workshop on the use of subjective survey data for empirical research. The purpose is to bring together international scholars who apply empirical methods to analyse subjective variables as outcomes or determinants in the context of labour market issues. Besides labour economics, research areas of interest may include population economics, migration, HR management, education, health, happiness and public economics. We specifically wish to invite researchers who deal with the potential problems of using subjective measures, as it is our goal to stimulate the debate as well as to enhance research conducted on the basis of subjective data.

Keynote lecture: Andrew E. Clark (Paris School of Economics - CNRS)

The workshop will be hosted by the Institute for Labour Law and Industrial Relations in the European Union (IAAEU) at Trier University from the 7th to the 8th of October 2016. Since Trier is Germany's oldest city and an important site for art treasures and classical monuments, a trip will offer the possibility to experience the city with its enduring history. To learn about the local culture, we will organize a social event on Friday including a wine-tasting as well as the conference dinner. On behalf of the organizers Adrian Chadi, Laszlo Goerke and Gabriel Schultze, we would like to invite you to come to Trier and attend the workshop.

Deadline for the submission of complete papers, or extended abstracts, is July 1, 2016. Preference will be given to full papers. Please send your contribution as a PDF to workshop@iaaeu.de including information on your affiliation, mail address, phone number and email. Authors will be notified no later than August 1, 2016 as to whether their contribution has been accepted for the workshop. A participation fee of 125 Euro will cover coffee and drinks, lunches, and social events, including the conference dinner. In exceptional cases in which participants do not have sufficient funding, the IAAEU will attempt to cover accommodation and travel expenses. Further information will be provided on the web at <http://www.iaaeu.de/workshop>. Please contact us if you have any questions (workshop@iaaeu.de). We look forward to your submission!
